

As one that relishes free markets, I must pause with great concern about the loosening of current media ownership laws. Having seen Dallas reduced to one major newspaper and a radio market that has become somewhat sterile due to rapid M&A nationally, I must say I am concerned that the proposal would lead to less and not more competition.

Less competition is bad for all America media outlets and bad for Americans.